SUMMARY

I am a front-end developer specialising in JavaScript, driven by a passion for constant learning and knowledge expansion. I graduated from an extensive coding bootcamp by edX, and earned a certificate in front-end web development. Throughout the four-month program, I successfully balanced my coursework with work commitments, showcasing both quick learning abilities and a strong commitment to continuous improvement. My background in retail management has honed my communication and teamwork skills, emphasising my creative problem-solving abilities and adaptability to changes. Detail-oriented and highly motivated, I derive satisfaction from coding efficient and responsive websites. I am eager to contribute my diverse skill set to dynamic development projects, demonstrating an unwavering commitment to excellence.
